Appendix 1: Selection & Coding of Supreme Court Cases

We searched for state Supreme Court cases using the Lexis Database through Nexis Uni. We conducted a search for all state Supreme Court cases from 2000 through 2020 with the word “abortion” as the key search word. From here, several research assistants reviewed the selected cases to determine if the cases were relevant to the issue of abortion or just mentioned abortion in an ancillary way. For the cases that were relevant, our research assistants reviewed the case summaries to determine if each case made a decision that expanded abortion rights in a state or contracted abortion rights in a state and the extent to which the case was about a general abortion regulation or about how access to abortion affected a specific individual.

Below is a list of all the cases that we included in our data set along with the state, date, case title, our classification of the case of pro-abortion or anti-abortion, and regulation type considered in the case.
